

GENERAL SYNOD
A Review of the Church of England's outcomes from the Culture Recovery Fund government grant scheme

1. This paper brings together publicly available information on the grants awarded to Church of England parishes and cathedrals from the government's Culture Recovery Fund. It includes a full list of recipients and analysis of where the money went.
2. The Culture Recovery Fund (CRF) was a government fund totalling £1.57bn, of which around £300m was dedicated to heritage. In addition, the National Lottery Heritage Fund re-directed up to £50m of its funds towards emergency support for existing and previous grant recipients who were at risk of organisational failure because of Covid-19. It was administered in different streams of funding run through various arms-length-bodies. Its aim was to support and ensure survival of heritage and cultural organisations through the Covid-19 pandemic.
3. Churches and cathedrals were eligible applicants for multiple strands including revenue support, capital projects, and support for arts, including choirs.
4. From the start of the pandemic, the NCIs prioritised work to support parishes, cathedrals and dioceses through the emergency. Part of this was a particular focus on ensuring churches were able to access all appropriate government emergency support. This included providing regular advice on furlough and other temporary support measures. It also included specific work with government to make discretionary grants accessible to all places of worship, and to ensure criteria intended to prioritise grants to areas of higher deprivation were properly applied. The allocation of CRF funding was a major part of this work.
5. The CRF ended on 31st March 2022, although some project work continued beyond this date. This report provides a summary of the grants awarded to the Church of England. These figures have been collated from publicly available sources but are synthesised here for the first time.
6. The Church of England received just over £60.6m directly into 582 parishes and cathedrals. Out of 16,000 buildings this may seem small but the impact on those places is significant. This work also showed government both the scale of need and the scale of ability and ambition to support national heritage that sits within our churches:
 - 813 grants were awarded to 582 churches and cathedrals.
 - 375 revenue grants and 438 capital grants were awarded.
 - 44% of this money went to parishes among the 30% most deprived nationally – nearly £27m.
 - 18% of the money went to parishes among the 10% most deprived nationally - nearly £11m.
7. Most grants relied on parishes and cathedrals applying directly, with information and support provided by the NCIs and dioceses. The credit for achieving this result sits with PCCs and Cathedral chapters, as well as the dedicated national and diocesan buildings support officers who prioritised this work at a time of great stress and uncertainty.
8. The NCIs are both carrying out our own evaluation and taking part in government evaluation of the scheme. This is with the aim of demonstrating the wide value of government investment in cathedral and church buildings.

 - 375 revenue grants and 438 capital grants were awarded

Where did the funding go?

A full spreadsheet of recipients is included as Appendix 1, organised by diocese. A consolidated list of total awards to each diocese is included in Appendix 3, with totals excluding cathedral grants in Appendix 4 and a list of awards to cathedrals in Appendix 5.

The government's levelling up agenda and issues of social deprivation were a big part of the criteria for applications and we have analysed the money allocated by province and by the parish-level index of multiple deprivation. The significance of the building in terms of heritage and its impact on local communities through provision of employment, social services and tourism were also factors in decision-making across all streams and so we have also provided a breakdown by building type.

A number of other Christian organisations, church heritage bodies, and related institutions such as bell foundries benefitted from grants. Those that can be easily identified are listed in Appendix 6 and total just over £16m into the wider religious heritage sector.

How did the NCIs support allocation of this funding?

During the pandemic, the staff of the Cathedral and Church Buildings Division of the National Church Institutions dedicated resource to support delivery of CRF funding to churches and cathedrals, including:

- The Director of Churches and Cathedrals representing the Church of England on the Department for Culture, Media and Sport's Heritage Council, meeting regularly throughout the pandemic to discuss pressures and priorities.
- Working with grant allocation bodies to ensure cathedrals and churches were eligible applicants and, where needed, able to be considered under special criteria to make allowance for their unique organisational structures (such as not being registered charities).
- Providing data and information to the arms-length-bodies to allow them to support church applicants. In this we were particularly supported by staff at Historic England administering the heritage at risk element of funding, where the vast majority of applicants and recipients were parish churches.
- Running online workshops for churches and cathedrals, and providing written guidance on the scheme, as well as direct updates on deadlines and application processes. This included particular focused support for more deprived areas and dioceses who did less well in early rounds.

- Applying for and administering £14m of capital repairs funding directly to over 80 cathedrals and major churches through the Archbishops' Council, including convening an expert panel to oversee fair allocation.
- Working with the National Churches Trust, who also successfully applied for funding for repair of church buildings and who published the House of Good report quantifying the social value of churches to communities.
- Participating in national media work to promote the CRF and to ensure the value of churches and cathedrals was seen by government and other key funders.

What does this funding tell us about buildings support?

One of the clearest indications of this funding is that dioceses with dedicated specialist support in buildings and grants did better than those without. The top two dioceses in terms of grants were London and Bath & Wells. Both dioceses already had, or engaged, energetic, specialist staff who worked hard to support parishes with applications, grants management and reporting.

The other clear finding from this set of funding is that churches and cathedrals with 'oven ready' projects do best in situations where grants become available at short notice. All involved know that developing a project from idea to fruition can be a long and complex process. Those who had invested that time were able to submit bids and receive funding much more easily than those who hadn't. This doesn't have to mean huge amounts of planning, but the importance of PCCs properly reviewing their QI and working with their architect to scope basic repair and maintenance works so they have available works easily ready to go would be good advice to all.

This funding also shows the ability of churches and cathedrals to use public money quickly and effectively, especially for capital projects. The lack of availability of a secure capital repairs fund for simple, ongoing repair and maintenance work, remains an issue for parishes and cathedrals and addressing this is a priority of the national Cathedral and Church Buildings teams.

Allocations of the Heritage Stimulus Fund (capital works)

The National Church Institutions had no control over allocation of grants in the revenue funding, NLHF, Kickstarter or Heritage At Risk streams. However it did, through the Archbishops' Council, directly administering most of the grants awarded to CofE churches and cathedrals under the Heritage Stimulus Fund. These were available to cathedrals and major churches. There was also a set of Heritage Stimulus grants administered by the National Churches Trust (NCT), awarded to parish churches. A full list is included in Appendix 2. The criteria for this Fund emphasised support for nationally important heritage properties that are managed primarily as visitor attractions, especially projects at sites demonstrating historically (pre- March 2020) high visitor numbers, and those in areas of high economic deprivation.

Next Steps

The lack of dedicated capital repairs funding has been a long-term problem, acknowledged by government in the 2017 Taylor Review of Cathedral and Church Building Sustainability. In lieu of a long-term replacement for the Grants for Places of Worship Programme, which is unlikely to be replaced anytime soon, the NCIs Cathedral and Church Buildings Team has lobbied for a series of one-off funds such as the First World War Centenary Cathedral Repairs Fund and Places of Worship Roof Repairs Fund, as well as prioritising retention of the Listed Places of Worship Grant Scheme, which gives grants equivalent to VAT on eligible works.

The recently announced triennium funding settlement for 2023-25 includes provision for an enhanced set of support services around cathedral and church buildings, with a particular focus on support for parishes. This includes work to enhance and grow the existing network of support officers and proposals to simplify buildings management by offering more of a cooperative model on insurance and maintenance – known as Church Buildings Management Partnerships. This triennium investment also answers the call of government for the CofE nationally to demonstrate its commitment to caring for and promoting our buildings as centres of worship and mission.

Evaluation of the CRF as a whole is being carried out by government and the distributing bodies. The NCIs are also conducting an evaluation of the Heritage Stimulus Fund grants, in collaboration with the National Churches Trust. This is to specifically assess and demonstrate the value of capital repairs funding for churches and cathedrals.
